

By-the-Block Services

Use Bleuwire™ expertise and skills as you need them - without long-term commitments - to handle projects large and small.

Trust Bleuwire™ with Your Project Work

For some companies, the basic managed services model - so much a month for carefully defined services - doesn't meet their business needs. You need talent on demand, ready to handle any and every project that might arise. That's how By-the-Block Services differs from a traditional retainer. You purchase a block of hours per month - without worrying about why you might need them. When something comes up, large or small, you've got the talent ready to get rolling. You never lose hours if you don't use them during a month; they simply roll over to the next month.

► Benefits

► Use By-the-Block Services When You Need Them

By-The-Block hours are ideal for "project work": new user implementation or new hardware installation for instance. You choose the number of By-the-Block service hours that best fits that project. Hours roll over month after month, so you never lose hours paid for, no matter when you use them.
